

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A cabled and wireless dual-purpose microphone is comprised of a receiver containing a transmission baseboard, the baseboard connected to a receiving unit and to Type 1 adapter; a wireless connector containing a casing to accommodate a battery source, a primary end of the casing connected to Type 2 adapter relatively connected to Type 1 adapter in the receiver, an antenna being connected to a conductor; and a cabled adapter with its primary end provided with Type 2 adapter relatively connected to Type 1 of the receiver, Type 2 adapter being connected to a conductor, and a connector being connected to a terminal of the conductor to plug in an audio input of a sound system to function as a cabled, or a wireless microphone or to permit continue use by immediately switching to cabled microphone in the absence of voltage from the battery.